BENGAL ACT NO. IV OF 1918.

THE SERAMPORE COLLEGE ACT, 1918.

An Act to supplement, and in certain matters to supersede, the Royal Charter of Incorporation and the Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.

Preamble

WHEREAS, on the 23rd day of February, 1827, the institution established in Serampore, Bengal, and known as the Serampore College, was incorporated by Royal Charter granted by his late Danish Majesty, King Frederick the Sixth, with the powers and privileges in the said Royal Charter set forth, including the power of conferring upon the students of the said College degrees of rank and honour according to their proficiency in science;

And whereas by Article VI of the Treaty of Purchase, dated the 22nd February, 1845, transferring Serampore to the British Government, it was provided that the rights and immunities granted to the Serampore College by the said Royal Charter, as translated and contained in Schedule I to this Act, should not be interfered with, but should continue in force in the same manner as if they had been obtained by a Charter from the British Government, subject to the general law of British India;

And whereas Statutes and Regulations for the better government of the said College and management of its concerns, as contained in Schedule II to this Act, were, on the 12th day of June, 1833, made and established under the powers conferred by Article 4 of the said Royal Charter;

And whereas, under the provisions of the said Royal Charter, the Council of the College consists of a Master or President and two or four members elected as provided in the said Statutes and Regulations, and the management of the College and its general order and government is vested in the Master and Council, and the said power of conferring degrees of rank and honour is vested in the first Council and their successors for ever;

And whereas it is considered that in order to give effect, under the conditions now existing, to the intentions of his late Danish Majesty and of the founders of the said College, that is to say, to promote piety and learning, particularly among the native Christian population of India, the amendment of the constitution of the College, by the enlargement of the Council on an interdenominational basis, with power to delegate some of its functions, in manner hereinafter appearing, is required;

And whereas the present Council of the said College consists of the Reverend George Pearce Gould, M.A., D.D., Master and President, George Barclay Leechman, Esq., Sir George Watson Macalpine, LL.D., the Reverend Robert Forman Horton, M.A., D.D., and the Reverend George Howells, M.A., PH. D., Principal of the College;

And whereas it is deemed expedient by the Governor in Council, with the consent of the said

Council of the Serampore College, that a Faculty and Senate be constituted for the said College in manner hereinafter appearing and that suitable standards be imposed in regard to any secular degrees that may hereafter be conferred by the said Council under the terms of the said Royal Charter;

And whereas it is necessary to make provision for the above purposes by subjecting the said Royal Charter, Statutes and Regulations to an Act of the legislature under the general law of British India in accordance with the terms of the aforesaid Treaty;

And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council has been obtained to the passing of this Act;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

And We do hereby further appoint, grant and declare that from and after the completion of the Statutes of the said College in the above said time of ten years, the said Council of the College shall be deemed to consist of a Master or President and two or four members who may be Professors or otherwise as the Statutes may direct so that the said Council shall not contain less than three, nor more than five persons, as shall be defined in the Statutes. The Council shall ever be elected as the Statutes of the College may direct, yet the said Master or President shall always previously have been a member of the College; and upon the decease of the said Master or President, the Council of the said College shall be unable to do any act or deed until the appointment of a new Master or President, save and except the appointment of such a Master.

SCHEDULE II.

[See Preamble and sections 10 (1), 14 and 15.]

Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.

June 12th, 1833.

1. Article the Third of the Charter granted by His Danish Majesty, having authorized the first Council of Serampore College in their life-time to nominate under their hand and seal such other person or persons for colleagues or successors as may to them appear most proper so that the Council shall always consist of at least three persons, their successors in the Council shall be competent in like manner to nominate in their life-time under their separate hand and seal such person or persons as they may deem most proper to fill vacancies then existing or which may occur on their demise; members thus nominated and chosen shall succeed to the Council in order of their nomination.

2. It being fixed in the Charter that the Council must consist of the Master or President and at least two, but not more than four members, and that on the demise of the Master no act shall be done until another be elected, the Master and Council for the time being shall appoint the next Master under their separate hand and seal. If on the demise of a Master no one be found thus appointed under the hand and seal of a majority of the Council, the senior member of the Council shall succeed as Master.

3. The Charter having given the casting vote to the Master, in all cases when the votes are equal the casting vote shall lie with the Master, and if there be no Master, it shall lie with the Senior Member of the Council.

4. Learning and piety being peculiar to no denomination of Christians, one member of the Council may at all times be of any other denomination besides the Baptist to preserve the original design of the Institution. However if on the election of a Master a number of the Council be equally divided, that part which is entirely of the Baptist denomination shall have the casting vote, whether it includes the Master or not.

5. The management of the College, including its revenues and property, the choice of the Professor and Tutors, the admission of students, the appointment of all functionaries and servants and the general order and government of the College, shall ever be vested in the Master and the Council. The Master shall see that the Statutes and Regulations of the Council be duly carried into effect, and take order for the good government of the College in all things. His signature is necessary to the validity of all deeds, instruments, documents and proceedings.

6. "The first Council and their successors for ever" being authorized by the Charter "to confer such degrees of rank and honour as shall encourage learning" in the same manner as other Colleges and Universities, they shall from time to time confer degrees in such branches of Knowledge and Science as may be studied there, in the same manner as the Universities in Denmark, Germany and Great Britain. In doing this the Master and Council shall ad libitum call in the aid of any or all the Professors of Serampore College. All such degrees shall be perfectly free of expense to the person on whom they may be conferred, whether he be in India, Europe or America.

7. No oaths shall be administered in Serampore College either to the Members of the Council, the Professors and Tutors, or the students. In all cases a solemn promise, duly recorded and signed by the party, shall be accepted instead of an oath.

8. Marriage shall be no bar to any office or situation in Serampore College, from that of the Master to that of the lowest student.

9. The salaries of the Professors and Tutors in Serampore College shall be appointed and the means of support for all functionaries, students and servants be regulated by the Council in such manner as shall best promote the objects of the Institution.

10. It is intended that neither the Master nor any Member of the Council in general shall receive any salary. But any Master who may not previously reside in the College shall have a residence there free of rent for himself and his family. And if the Council shall elect any one in Europe or in America, whom they deem eminent for learning and piety, a member of the Council, with a view to choosing him Master should they on trial deem him worthy, the Council shall be competent to appoint him such salary as they may deem necessary, not exceeding, however, the highest given to a Professor.

11. As the founders of the College deem the belief of Christ's Divinity and Atonement essential to vital Christianity, the promotion of which is the grand object of this Institution, no one shall be eligible to the College Council or to any Professorship who is known to oppose these doctrines, and should any one of the Professors or any member of the Council unhappily change his views after his election as to oppose these fundamental doctrines of Christianity, on this being clearly and decidedly proved from his teaching or his writings, he shall vacate the office he previously held. But every proceeding of this nature on the part of the College Council shall be published to the Christian world, with the proofs on which it may rest, as an Appendix to the succeeding Report.

12. Members of the Council are eligible from among the Professors of the College, or from among any in India, Europe, or America, whom the College Council may deem suitable in point of learning, piety, and talent.

The Serampore College Act, 1918.

(Schedule II.—Statutes and Regulations of the Serampore College.)

13. Students are admissible at the discretion of the Council from any body of Christians, whether Protestant, Roman Catholic, the Greek, or the Armenian Church; and for the purpose of study, from the Musalman and Hindu youth, whose habits forbid their living in the College. No caste, colour, or country shall bar any man from admission into Serampore College.

14. Expulsion shall be awarded in cases of open immorality, incorrigible idleness, neglect of the College Statutes and Regulations, or repeated disobedience to the officers of the College.

15. Any person in India, Europe or America shall be at liberty to found any Professorship, or to attach to Serampore College any annual exhibition or prize for the encouragement of learning in the same manner as in Universities of Great Britain, regulating such endowment according to their own will; and it shall be the duty of the College Council to carry such benefactions into effect in strict consonance with the will of the donors as far as shall be consistent with the Statutes of the College.

16. It shall be lawful for the first Council of the College or their successors to make and rescind any bye-laws whatever, provided they be not contrary to these Statutes.

17. The Charter having declared that the number of the Professors and Students in Serampore College remains unlimited, they shall be left thus unlimited, the number to be regulated only by the gracious providence of God and the generosity of the public in India, Europe and America.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when approaching British Ports.

No. 111 (first publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 170 of 1918), are republished :—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. 1 of 1918 (This office No. 62 of 1918); hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that it may be necessary to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give Notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must approach the port with the greatest caution and implicitly obey all orders or signals given them by the Examination vessel or signal station.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) In certain circumstances it is also necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the port Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

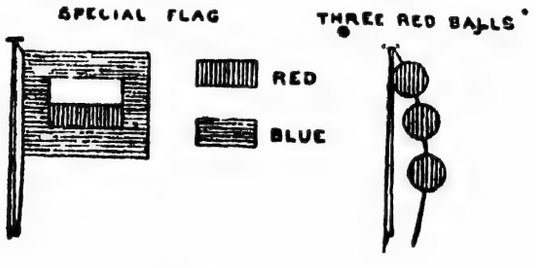
(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.



By night the steamer will carry—

(a) three red vertical lights if the port is closed.

(b) three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, when approaching a British port where the Examination Service is in force, they must have the distinguishing signal of their vessel ready to hoist immediately the Examination Steamer makes the signal.

(9) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats, communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer (except to avoid accident).

(10) In case of fog, Masters are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the port should be approached with caution.

(11) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are especially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(12) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

PART IV.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

Notice is hereby given that under the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, the following Regulations have been made by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and are now in force.

H.M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations off the coasts of the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals:—

A black ball at the foremast head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair, as the vessels may have mines trailing in their sweeps and also on account of the danger caused to traffic if mine-sweepers have to slip their sweeps to get out of the way of vessels.

CAUTION.

Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is issued under the provisions of the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, and failure to comply strictly with the directions contained in it will constitute an offence against those Regulations

Any person found guilty of such an offence is liable to severe penalties both of imprisonment and fine.

Any person aiding or abetting the commission of such an offence is himself guilty of an offence against the Regulations.

Attention is also drawn to the fact that any infringement of the directions contained in Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is liable to result in the detention of the ship or vessel.

The balance, viz., Rs. 13,200, is in Government securities. The annual interest on the capital amounts to Rs. 37,079, which is kept in the Bank of Bengal. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 14,506-11-9, and closed with a balance of Rs. 19,708-13-1.

III. Election to vacancies, etc.—(1) The Governors having found it necessary to reduce the number of foundationers for financial reasons, there was no election during the year.

(2) Of the 16 girls withdrawn during the year, 12 had attained the age of 17 years, the limit ordinarily allowed under the rules, and 4 were withdrawn, for various reasons, before they had attained that age.

(3) Of the girls who had been withdrawn during the preceding year, and in respect of whom reports have been received during the year under review, one is undergoing training as a Kindergarten teacher, one is being trained for the profession of teaching, and one has joined the Lady Hardinge College for medical students at Delhi. One, after passing the Senior Cambridge Local Examination, studied and passed the Higher Locals in Music and Mathematics, which subjects she now teaches in the school in which she was educated. She intends, however, to go to the Dow Hill Training College at Kurseong during the current year for training. Another has temporarily taken up an appointment as a resident teacher in a school in Calcutta, pending her admission to the Dow Hill Training College, while another is teaching in a private school. Three have found employment as typists in mercantile firms, three are learning shorthand and type-writing, and one is undergoing a course of study in commercial subjects. Two are employed as operators in the Bengal Telephone Exchange, and one assists her brother-in-law in his business as a chemist.

(4) At the close of the year there were 116 girls on the fund against 132 in the previous year. They were distributed as follows :—

Loreto Convent, Entally	Boarding School—18 Orphanage —18	36
Calcutta Girls' High School	... ...	26

(5) The following table affords particulars as to the class and denomination of the foundationers at the close of the year :—

3. Those who have both parents alive ...	4	3	4	11
Total ...	51	38	27	116

(6) The health of the girls was generally satisfactory. There were no deaths during the year.

IV. Education and Maintenance.—(1) The nature of the education given to the girls on the fund was generally that prescribed for Elementary and Higher Elementary Schools under the Code of Regulations for European Schools in Bengal, and, in a few cases, that for the Cambridge Local Examinations. Under the rules a girl is not ordinarily allowed to remain on the fund after she has attained the age of 17 years, when an outfit grant is generally given to enable her to make a start in life.

(2) Eight girls were sent up for the Cambridge Local Examinations held in December 1916, of whom 3 passed, viz., 1 the Senior and 2 the Junior. Six were presented for the Elementary School Certificate Examination of whom 5 passed. Several also appeared at the Cambridge Local Examinations held in December last, but the results are not yet known.

(3) Extension of the period of benefit normally allowed was granted to three wards during the year to enable them to learn shorthand and typewriting, needle-work and cookery, and to be trained as a child's nurse respectively. Extension was granted also to three wards who were preparing for the Cambridge Local Examinations, while three were permitted to continue on the fund till the results of the Cambridge Local Examinations for the year 1917, for which they appeared, are published, when the question of granting further extension will be considered.

(4) The monthly average cost for the education and maintenance of each girl on the fund amounted to Rs. 18-12-4 against Rs. 18-8-4 in the preceding year.

(5) The amounts paid under the different heads of expenditure were as noted below :—

V. Inspection.—The Rev. G. S. Henderson was appointed Visiting-Governor for the first half, and reappointed for the second half, of the year, He visited all the schools in Calcutta where there were Bruce wards in residence, and paid several visits to schools having the largest number of wards. He also saw them receiving instruction in their classes and inspected their quarters. He found the wards happy and well cared for. He had special interviews with the older wards with regard to their future. Some were aiming to be lady-doctors, others, teachers or shorthand typists, or operators in the Telephone Company.

VI. Meetings.—Three meetings were held during the year, but there were no resolutions of general importance calling for special mention except those approving (1) the grant of a second outfit allowance on the transfer of a ward from an elementary to a secondary school, and (2) the inclusion of the Loreto Convent, Asansol, as a school to which Bruce wards may be sent at elementary school rates.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

From—The Chief of the General Staff,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Army Department.

(b) Major-General Sir W. G. L. Beynon, K.C.I.E., C.B., D.S.O., who commanded the South Waziristan Field Force.

3. His Excellency also wishes to acknowledge the great assistance afforded to the Government of India by the three regiments of the Nepalese contingent who took part in these operations.

General Sir Baber Shumshere Jang, Bahadur Rana, K.C.I.E., in his capacity as representative of the Nepalese Army and liaison officer afforded Sir William Beynon all possible help, advice and support.

No. W.-4171, dated Murree, the 20th September 1917.

From—LIEUTENANT-GENERAL SIR A. A. BARRETT, K.C.B., K.C.S.I., K.C V.O., Commanding, Northern Army,
To—The Chief of the General Staff, Army Headquarters, Simla.

I have the honour to furnish, for the information of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the following report on the operations undertaken against the Mahsuds during the period March to August 1917.

2. On 26th February, news was received at Wana that a large Mahsud lashkar was moving against Sarwakai, one of the posts garrisoned by the South Waziristan Militia. The Commandant of the Corps at once strengthened the garrison, which, by operating outside the post on 2nd March successfully kept the Mahsuds at bay. On the following day, however, after inflicting considerable losses on the enemy, it had to withdraw into the post, having suffered many casualties, including the loss of its British officer, killed.

On learning of this attack, Brigadier-General G. M. Baldwin, D.S.O., Commanding the Derajat Brigade, ordered the concentration of the Derajat Movable Column at Murtaza.

3. On 4th March, I received orders from the Chief of the General Staff to assume control of the operations necessary to deal with the Mahsud outbreak, and directed the General Officer Commanding, Derajat Brigade, to proceed at once with the Movable Column to the relief of Sarwakai. I also ordered the despatch to Tank of the 44th Infantry Brigade, which had already been warned to stand ready to support the Movable Column, and of the 23rd Indian Mountain Battery.

4. In accordance with these orders the Derajat Movable Column advanced up the Gomal and relieved Sarwakai on 9th March. Some 3,000 to 4,000 Mahsuds had remained in the vicinity of the post with the apparent intention of opposing the column, but on its approach the lashkar withdrew. On 10th March, General Baldwin, whose column had been augmented by a detachment of 250 South Waziristan Militia, under Major G. E. Davis, the Commandant of the Corps, advanced to Barwand, a village in the Shahur Valley, where punitive measures were carried out in face of some opposition. The column retired to Sarwakai the same day and on the 11th proceeded to Khajuri Kach, where it remained for the rest of the month. With the exception of an attack on a piquet on the Gwaleri Pass, no further hostile acts were committed by the Mahsuds during March.

Meanwhile, the 44th Infantry Brigade with the 23rd Indian Mountain Battery had been concentrated at Tank by 11th March, and on 12th it marched to Jatta, at which place it was well situated to support the Moveable Column up the Gomal Valley or the garrison of Jandola.

5. Representatives of certain sections of the tribe were interviewed towards the end of March by Mr J. A. O. Fitzpatrick, C.I.E., the Political Agent, Wana, and, as it appeared that there was little likelihood of further trouble, orders were issued for the return of the Derajat Movable Column to Tank, which place was reached on 3rd April, and for the dispersal to their stations of the units of the 44th Infantry Brigade.

The hope that the Mahsuds would remain quiet was, however, quickly dispelled, as on 9th April the piqueting troops of a convoy proceeding over the Gwaleri Pass towards Nili Kach were attacked. Consequently the Derajat Moveable Column was directed to proceed again up the Gomal, and one section of the 23rd Indian Mountain Battery and the 1-4th Gurkha Rifles of the 44th Infantry Brigade were ordered to return to Tank. The Moveable Column arrived at Khajuri Kach on 17th April; and on 21st, whilst proceeding from Tanai to Wana, it was opposed by a considerable body of tribesmen in the defile near Karabkot. The passage of the defile was successfully forced, the casualties suffered by the column not being heavy, and on 24th April the column returned from Wana to Tanai, where it was suitably placed to operate in the direction of either Sarwakai or Wana.

6. On 1st May, another attack was made by a strong party of the enemy on a convoy proceeding from Nili Kach to Khajuri Kach. The convoy escort was taken at a disadvantage and the losses suffered by it were severe. On hearing of this attack, Brigadier-General Baldwin at once despatched 500 rifles from Tanai to Sarwakai with a view to intercepting the Mahsuds returning to their country, and, on the following day, a party of Militia from Sarwakai, supported by some of the above detachment, succeeded in coming up with the raiders and inflicting casualties upon them. On 2nd May, Brigadier-General Baldwin's column moved to Khajuri Kach and arrived the following day at Nili Kach.

It will be observed that the Mahsuds, in all their attacks on convoys proceeding along the Golam route, selected for the purpose the stage between Nili Kach and Khajuri Kach. The country in this stage, in which the Gwaleri Pass has to be crossed, is extremely difficult and peculiarly favourable to the tribesmen's tactics. No movement of troops can be hidden from Mahsuds on the hill tops; the track in many places follows deep nalas with precipitous sides; and the very broken and intricate nature of the country affords every advantage to the enemy for concealment, and for subsequent withdrawal.

7. The attack made by the enemy on 1st May, combined with the increased raiding by large gangs into the Derajat district, showed that the Mahsuds were becoming emboldened and it became necessary to increase the strength of the garrison of the Derajat. Three additional infantry battalions which, with the 1-4th Gurkha Rifles, formed the 43rd Infantry Brigade, under the command of Brigadier-General W. M. Southey; C.M.G., and two sections of mountain artillery were therefore ordered to Tank; the 107th Pioneers and No. 7 Field Company, Sappers and Miners, having been previously sent into the area to improve communications. On 6th May, the force in the Derajat was constituted the Derajat Field Force, and Major-General W. G L. Beynon, C.B., C.I.E., D.S.O., was appointed to command with Sir John Donald, K,C.I.E., C.S.I., as his Chief Political Officer. On the 12th May, the Bannu Brigade under the command of Brigadier-General the Hon'ble C. G. Bruce, M.V.O., was placed under General Beynon's orders and the troops in the Derajat and Bannu Brigades were designated the Waziristan Field Force.

8. Whilst these reinforcements were moving into the Derajat, an action was fought on 10th May in the vicinity of Sarwakai. The Officer commanding the post, Major L. P. Collins, D.S.O., 1-4th Gurkha Rifles, hearing that a body of the enemy was retiring from the vicinity of Tormandu, moved out during the night of 9th-10th with a force of 450 rifles, comprising 1-4th Gurkha Rifles, 11th Rajputs, and South Waziristan Militia, with the object of intercepting the enemy's retreat At dawn, the Mahsuds were successfully surprised, but large enemy reinforcements arriving, very fierce hand to hand fighting took place. As there was danger of being surrounded the Officer Commanding the detachment rightly decided to withdraw to Sarwakai. Although our losses in this engagement were severe, those inflicted on the enemy were also heavy and included the leader of the lashkar. Great praise is, I consider, due to the troops, who were largely composed of young soldiers, for the steadiness and gallantry with which they fought.

9. Hitherto only certain sections of the Mahsuds had been hostile and it had been hoped that the operations could be confined to those necessary for the security of the Gomal, and the protection of the Derajat border. It was most desirable to avoid, if possible, undertaking offensive operations during the hot weather when the climatic conditions in the Derajat are of the worst description. Also, as soon as the rains commence, the railway and road communications are very liable to interruption. The confidence of the hostile sections of the Mahsuds in their immunity from punishment had, however, resulted in bringing in other sections of the tribe against us, and, on the 19th May, Government sanctioned the taking of punitive measures, with the Khaisara Valley as the objective.

10. To carry out these offensive operations the force in the Derajat was reinforced by the 45th Infantry Brigade, under the command of Brigadier-General C. C. Luard, two battalions of the 44th Infantry Brigade, one section No. 1 British Mountain Battery, and No. 11 Field Company, Sappers and Miners.

In order to protect the Bannu district, four additional battalions, two of which belonged to the 44th Brigade, commanded by Brigadier-General G. D. Crocker, were added to the garrison.

11. Meanwhile, on 16th May, a Mahsud lashkar, believed to have been of a strength of some 2,000 men, attacked, on the Gwaleri Pass, the second echelon of a convoy proceeding up the Gomal to ration Sarwakai and Wana. The convoy was unable to get through, and returned to Nili Kach. Major-General Beynon, therefore, directed Brigadier-General Southey to march from Murtaza to Nili Kach with two battalions. This General Southey was unable to do until 20th owing to the Gomal river being in flood. The convoy then proceeded to Wana without further incident.

12. The accumulation of supplies preparatory to carrying out of punitive measures in the Khaisara Valley from Wana had now to be undertaken. The Gomal river, however, again came down in flood and the disadvantage of utilizing, as a line of communication, a route traversing the long and dangerous defile of the Gomal and liable to be interrupted for long periods by floods in the river, made it desirable to consider the possibility of utilizing an alternative line into the Khaisara. Major-General Beynon, therefore, submitted proposals, which had my full approval, for operations viâ Jandola and the Shahur Valley. On 26th May, these proposals were sanctioned by Government. In order to facilitate the passage of Major-General Beynon's main force through the Shahar tangi between Jandola and Haidari Kach, at which defile it was probable that the Mahsuds would endeavour seriously to oppose the advance of the force, it was decided that a detachment of two battalions and a section of mountain guns should be located at Sarwakai, from which place it could operate against the rear of any enemy holding the defile.

Steps were taken at once for the formation of an advanced base and for the accumulation of supplies at Jandola; also for the completion of the garrison of Sarwakai up to the strength decided upon.

13. Up to the end of May no hostile acts had been committed by the Mahsuds in the Tochi. On 31st, however, Tut Narai, a small post, garrisoned by the North Waziristan Militia was captured by a ruse, the lashkar taking part being estimated to be some 600 strong. Owing to the fire brought to bear on the attackers by men holding the two outlying towers and to the rapidity with which the local village pursuit parties were turned out by Major F H. Humphrys, the Political Agent, Tochi, the enemy were unable to damage the post. Brigadier-General Bruce, who was at Miramshah with the Moveable Column, ordered Tut Narai to be at once regarrisoned and a small column under the command of Major G. B. Scott, D.S.O., Commandant, North Waziristan Militia, was despatched the same evening and effected its object without incident.

14. By the 9th June, Major-General Beynon's striking force and the line of communication troops destined for Jandola and the posts beyond were concentrated at Jandola. During this concentration the only aggressive action taken by the enemy was a determined attack on 7th June by a party of 300 men against a piqueting detachment, consisting of two British officers and 89 men of 2-1st Gurkha Rifles, near the Zam Post. The enemy was driven off with heavy loss; our losses, as a result of the close fighting in scrub jungle, also being severe.

15. As Major-General Beynon was now about to proceed in command of this striking force up the Shahur Valley, it became apparent that he would not be in a position effectively to control any operations which might become necessary on the Tochi side. Consequently His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief decided that the troops in the Bannu and Derajat areas should again become separate forces, being designated the North and South Waziristan Field Forces, respectively, under the general control of the General Officer Commanding, Northern Army. Orders giving effect to this decision were issued on 14th June.

16. On 13th June sufficient supplies had been collected at Jandola to admit of Major-General Beynon advancing up the Shahur Valley. Prior to this, he had, on 12th, moved out to attack a considerable body of the enemy near the junction of the Shahur and Takhi Zam; the enemy did not, however, make a stand. On 13th, a reconnaissance was carried out to the eastern end of the Shahur tangi and a double camel track was cleared up the river bed. The following day the 45th Brigade proceeded to the Chagmalai at the eastern entrance of the defile and on the 15th seized the heights commanding it, under cover of which the 43rd Brigade advanced to Haidari Kach, whilst the force at Sarwakai demonstrated in the direction of Turan China. The passage of the Shahur tangi was unopposed and the Sarwakai column was successful in killing and capturing a few of the enemy in Kamardun village.

17. On 16th June, the 45th Brigade joined the main body of the force at Haidari Kach. The three following days were occupied in carrying out punitive measures in the vicinity, in improving the road through the defile and in reconnoitring the route to Burwand. Reports were now received that the Mahsuds intended strongly to oppose the further advance of Major-General Beynon's force and, on 19th June, when the force moved to Burwand, considerable opposition was met with. During the whole of the ensuing night several hundred of the enemy made determined efforts to capture a piquet of the 54th Sikhs (F. F) under the command of an Indian officer. This piquet, although sustaining heavy losses, was successful in maintaining its position. Major-General Beynon describes the defence as a most gallant one, which not only worthily upheld the fine traditions of the battalion and of the Punjab Frontier Force, but, as was admitted by the Mahsuds at the final jirga, contributed in no small measure to inspiring the tribe with respect for His Majesty's troops and a general desire for peace.

On 20th, for reasons of water-supply, the force moved forward a short distance to Ispana Raghza. The enemy made a determined attempt to check the advance, but the 43rd Brigade overcame the opposition, the work of the 1-25th London Regiment and the 1-4th Gurkha Rifles being specially noticeable.

On 21st, Major-General Beynon ordered the 45th Brigade to destroy the village of Nanu at the head of the Splitoi Valley, whilst the 43rd Brigade dealt with the settlements in the vicinity of Ispana Raghza. The enemy had evidently determined to make a stand on this occasion, and aeroplanes reported considerable bodies of the enemy on the ridge, dividing the Splitoi and Shahur valleys through which ran the pass to Nanu. The 45th Brigade attacked the pass with great spirit and dash, the 2-6th Sussex Regiment moving against the pass itself, whilst the 2-1st (King George's Own) Gurkha Rifles, and the Mahindradal Regiment, Nepalese contingent, seized the heights to the south and north of the pass, respectively. The enemy was driven off, Nanu village destroyed and the retirement of the troops to camp effected with only slight molestation Major-General Beynon brings to notice the most creditable manner in which the Mahindradal Regiment carried the heights forming its objective and also the valuable work performed by the aeroplanes of the 31st Squadron, Royal Flying Corps, both in reconnaissance and in bombing the enemy. The defeat of the enemy on this occasion appears to have brought home to the enemy the futility of attempts to oppose the British Raj and messages asking for terms of peace begun from now to be sent in.

On 22nd June, the 43rd Brigade destroyed the large village of Shah Salim Mela in the Waspas Valley. The enemy had made careful preparations for opposing the advance; but, owing to the good dispositions made by Lieutenant-Colonel C. O. O. Tanner, Commanding the Brigade, the whole of the enemy's defence was turned and our casualities were slight.

18. Sufficient supplies having now been collected to enable the advance to be resumed, the striking force moved on 23rd to Narai Raghza. A very difficult defile had to be negotiated in the face of opposition which was cleared away by the 45th Brigade. During the following night the camp was heavily sniped and several piquets were attacked, one of the 1-4th Gurkha Rifles coming in for a particular share of the enemy's attention. The possession of bombs assisted considerably in the defence of these piquets.

On 24th Major General Beynon directed the 43rd Brigade to capture the Shrawani Pass to cover the passage through it of the 45th Brigade which was to carry out punitive measures in the Khaisara. The heights leading to and commanding this Pass were seized by the 1st Rifles, Nepalese Contingent, 54th Sikhs (F. F.) and the 1-4th Gurkha Rifles. The enemy was forestalled and the 45th Brigade was rapidly pushed through into Khaisara Valley. Under cover of the right flank guard, which was continuously engaged with the enemy, the destruction of all the villages within reach was proceeded with; the villages in the Nana Khel-Ghazi Kot area and the Machi Khel settlements being thoroughly dealt with, p actically all the towers of these villages being blown up. The retirement was then ordered. This movement was hotly followed up and a piquet of the 55th Cokes' Rifles (F. F.) was charged, but the enemy was driven back with loss. Major-General Beynon brings to notice the skilful manner in which the retirement of the 45th Brigade was carried out by Brigadier-General Luard. Major-General Beynon's intentions were to visit the Khaisara again on the following day, but messengers had arrived from Kaniguram asking for terms of peace, and the Chief Political Officer considered that the damage already effected was sufficient. Accordingly, on 25th, after destroying a village in the vicinity of the camp, the force returned with slight molestation to Ispana Raghza.

19. Whilst these operations were taking place several raids were carried out by aeroplanes of the 31st Squadron, Royal Flying Corps. Shingai villages in the Takhi Zam and others in the Badda Toi were bombed and in a particularly successful raid on 26th June nine hits were scored on Makin and six on Marobi, the home of Mulla Fazl Din, the titular chief of the tribe. These raids involved considerable risks. Engines were very liable to failure in the high temperature prevailing; distances from the base at Tank were long and hills up to 8,000 feet had to be crossed. These risks were, however, cheerfully taken by the flying officers and were well repaid by the results obtained, which undoubtedly contributed largely to the general desire for peace displayed by all sections of the tribe.

20. A letter had now been received from a jirga at Kaniguram asking for Government terms of peace. These were communicated verbally, and the messengers were informed that military operations would be suspended until 2nd July on which date representative maliks were ordered to come in.

On this date the maliks from Kaniguram arrived at Boji Khel, to which place General Beynon had transferred his force on 28th and 29th June owing to the water-supply at Ispana Raghza being unsatisfactory. The maliks accepted the terms imposed and hostages were given for their due fulfilment.

On 9th July, the first instalment of the rifles demanded from the tribe was handed in and fresh hostages were given pending final settlement. The attitude of the tribe being now very satisfactory, Major-General Beynon's force moved back, on the 11th and 12th July, to Manzal at the junction of the Shahur and Danawat Valleys, the post at Haidari Katch being at the same time transferred to Chagmalai.

Owing to the difficulty experienced by the maliks in collecting the rifles which had to be surrendered, the final jirga could not be held as early as had been hoped, but on the 10th August a full representative jirga of 3,000 Mahsuds ratified the settlement; peace was declared and British territory opened to them for trade. By 12th August all troops had been withdrawn to Jandola and the dispersal of the forces in the Derajat and Bannu areas commenced.

21. Whilst these operations had been taking place, the troops under Brigadier-General Bruce in the Bannu area were not called upon to undertake any offensive measures. The presence of strong forces at Bannu and Miramshah deterred the Mahsuds from raiding into the Bannu district and Tochi Valley and kept them in a state of uncertainty as to whether an advance from Miramshah might not be contemplated. On one occasion only was it necessary for Brigadier-General Bruce to act against a body of the enemy. This was on the 14th June when a body of Mahsuds approached the Saidgi defile in the Tochi Valley with the object of attacking the 1 1st Kent Regiment marching to Miramshah. The prompt concentration of troops, both from Miramshah and Bannu, to effect which mechanical transport was largely employed, successfully prevented the enemy from carrying out his design.

22. The physical and climatic conditions of this portion of the North-West Frontier are peculiarly trying and the period during which the recent offensive operations had to be undertaken was the hottest time of the year. Nothing, however, could have exceeded the cheerfulness and determination with which all difficulties and hardships were faced and overcome by the troops; not only by those actively engaged against the enemy, but by those on the lines of communication who, at first in the Gomal and later in the Shahur Valley, were continuously employed on piqueting duties in difficult and dangerous country.

23. At the time when it was decided to take the offensive the most unfavourable season of the year was just commencing. It was necessary that operations should be undertaken with the least possible delay and with a force of adequate size to ensure rapid success. This entailed the immediate expansion of the force already available, which threw a great strain on the communications leading into the area. The Kalabagh-Bannu-Tank narrow gauge line was inadequately equipped for the movement of large bodies of troops and was liable to interruption in the event of heavy rain. The unbridged passages of the Indus at Kalabagh and Darya Khan added greatly to the difficulties to be overcome. Consequently the work of those responsible for the communications was very arduous and the manner in which these duties were carried out is worthy of great praise. The administrative services and departments had also to work under high pressure and adverse conditions and their untiring efforts contributed greatly to the success of the operations. The Supply and Transport and Ordnance Services successfully met all the demands made upon them. The Medical Services, under the direction of Colonel P. Hehir, C. B., C. M G., I.M.S, by the timely use of precautionary measures, were able to prevent the outbreak of evidemics and the arrangements made for the reception and evacuation of the large numbers of sick, which it was anticipated would have to be dealt with as a result of the great heat and unhealthy theatre in which the operations took place, were fully adequate to deal with the casualties which occurred. The provision and equipment of base hospitals and convalescent depôts at Rawalpindi and in the Murree Hills was quickly carried out under the orders of the General Officer Commanding, 2nd (Rawalpindi) Division, and amply sufficed to meet all requirements.

The Royal Engineers had to carry through much work, especially in connection with hospital accommodation, which was expeditiously and satisfactorily executed

Whilst Major General Beynon's striking force was in the Shahur Valley, sections of No. 3 Wireless Signal Squadron had to be relied on almost entirely for maintaining communications with it, and great credit is due to these sections for the way in which they coped with the heavy traffic.

24. I wish to express my thanks to the North-Western Railway authorities for the manner in which the transport of troops and supplies was carried out, especially over the narrow gauge railway in the Trans-Indus area. The congestion on this line was very great and it was only owing to the unceasing exertions of the personnel of this line that the heavy traffic was successfully dealt with, in spite of inadequate rolling-stock and frequent interruptions due to damage to the permanent-way caused by floods.

The operations threw a heavy amount of work on the Posts and Telegraph Department, for the successful coping with which I desire to express my gratitude and thanks. I also wish to thank the Red Cross Society and those who contributed to sending comforts to the troops for their gifts, which were most acceptable to the recipients.

25. I am greatly indebted to the advice and assistance I have received from the Hon'ble Lieutenant-Colonel Sir George Roos-Keppel, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., Chief Commissioner, North-West Frontier Province, and to the manner in which the Political Officers attached to the North and South Waziristan Field Forces carried out their duties. Also for the assistance rendered by the North and South Waziristan Militias and Frontier Constabulary.

THE Bengal and Madras Service Family Pension Fund which is provisionally managed and assisted by Government has for its object the provision of monthly pensions for the maintenance of the widows and children of subscribers and is open, with certain exceptions, to all active and pensioned members of the Uncovenanted Service of Government (except those serving under the Government of Bombay), and to Local Fund servants earning pensions from Government. BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when approaching British Ports.

No. 111 (third publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 170 of 1918), are republished :—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. 1 of 1918 (This office No. 62 of 1918); hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that it may be necessary to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give Notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must approach the port with the greatest caution and implicitly obey all orders or signals given them by the Examination vessel or signal station.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) In certain circumstances it is also necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice.

(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or light mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the port. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

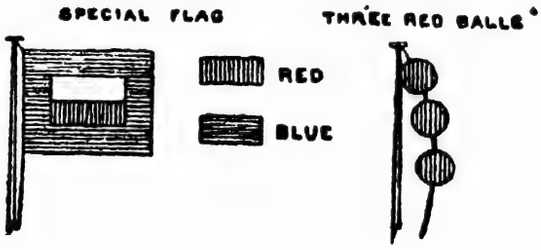
(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.



By night the steamer will carry—

(a) three red vertical lights if the port is closed.

(b) three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, when approaching a British port where the Examination Service is in force, they must have the distinguishing signal of their vessel ready to hoist immediately the Examination Steamer makes the signal.

(9) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats, communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer (except to avoid accident).

(10) In case of fog, Masters are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the port should be approached with caution.

(11) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are especially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(12) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

PART IV.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

Notice is hereby given that under the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, the following Regulations have been made by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, and are now in force.

H.M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations off the coasts of the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals:—

A black ball at the foremast head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair, as the vessels may have mines trailing in their sweeps and also on account of the danger caused to traffic if mine-sweepers have to slip their sweeps to get out of the way of vessels.

CAUTION.

Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is issued under the provisions of the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, and failure to comply strictly with the directions contained in it will constitute an offence against those Regulations

Any person found guilty of such an offence is liable to severe penalties both of imprisonment and fine.

Any person aiding or abetting the commission of such an offence is himself guilty of an offence against the Regulations.

Attention is also drawn to the fact that any infringement of the directions contained in Part IV of this Admiralty Notice to Mariners is liable to result in the detention of the ship or vessel.

Note.

REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT IN BENGAL FOR THE QUINQUENNIUM ENDING WITH THE YEAR 1916-17.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 734Edn.—The 8th May 1918.—The following extracts from the report by Mr. W. W. Hornell, C.I.E., on the Progress of Education in Bengal, 1912-13 to 1916-17 (fifth quinquennial review), are published for general information.

L. S. S. O'MALLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

General.

5. Children of school-going age.—The number of children of school-going age calculated at 15 per cent. of the total population is 6,822,461, viz., 3,504,784 males and 3,317,677 females. The Government of India have recently discontinued the practice of this calculation and have adopted in its stead the percentage of pupils at school calculated upon the total population. On the basis of this calculation the figures would be—

(1) Percentage of men and boys at school to the total male population	6·92
(2) Percentage of women and girls at school to the total female population	1·36
(3) Percentage of pupils at school to the total population	4·21

6. Public and private institutions.—The returns for 1916-17 show the Bengal Presidency as possessing 48,373 educational institutions, viz., 38,489 institutions for the education of men and boys, and 9,884 institutions for the education of women and girls. The figures for 1911-12 were 42,939, viz., 35,665 institutions for men and boys, and 7,274 institutions for women and girls. Thus the increase during the quinquennium was in institutions for men and boys 2,824 or 7·9 per cent., in institutions for women and girls 2,610 or 35·9 per cent. The increase is distributed through all classes and grades of institutions except special schools, but it is most marked in primary schools.

13. Expenditure.—The Education Budget for 1916-17 provided Rs. 88,30,000 for expenditure during that year. The budget provision for 1912-13 was Rs. 78,45,000. In other words, the amount of public money available for expenditure on education, exclusive of the amounts spent by district boards and municipalities out of their own funds, increased by Rs. 9,85,000 in four years.

* * * * * *

34. Schools in district board areas and total district board expenditure on education.—On 31st March 1917 there were under the management of district boards 84 secondary, 2,824 primary and 7 special schools; these schools were attended by 6,932, 129,091 and 415 pupils, respectively. There were also within the jurisdiction of the boards 2,180 secondary, 36,723 primary and 869 special schools under private management. Of these, 878 secondary, 31,170 primary and 428 special schools received aid from district boards. On 31st March 1917 the aided schools had 1,094,397 pupils on their rolls and the unaided schools 360,018. During the year 1916-17 district boards spent Rs. 22,25,748 on education. They spent Rs. 4,13,033 on schools under their direct management and Rs. 14,63,903 in grants-in-aid to other schools within their jurisdiction. As regards the balance, Rs. 2,05,511 went on buildings, furniture and apparatus, Rs. 49,048 on inspection, Rs. 53,213 on scholarships and Rs. 41,040 on miscellaneous charges. The corresponding figures for 1911-12 were Rs. 13,66,214, Rs. 1,58,827, Rs. 8,35,933, Rs. 2,23,491, Rs. 48,845, Rs. 40,028 and Rs. 59,090, respectively. The increase is wholly due to the Imperial allotments which were placed during the quinquennium at the disposal of district boards for expenditure on primary education.

36. Schools in municipal areas and total municipal expenditure on education.—On 31st March 1917 the municipalities in Bengal had under their management 9 secondary and 8 primary schools, educating 2,826 and 380 pupils, respectively. There were also 378 secondary, 1,863 primary and 273 special schools under private management in their areas. Of these, 115 secondary, 1,527 primary and 117 special schools received aid from these bodies. The number of pupils attending these institutions was 94,108, while the unaided institutions educated 96,773 pupils. During 1916-17 the total expenditure of the municipalities on education amounted to Rs. 2,07,539. Their expenditure on schools under their own management was Rs. 7,195 and their grants-in-aid to schools within their areas Rs. 1,76,617. They also spent Rs. 23,537 on inspection, scholarships, buildings, etc. The corresponding figures for 1911-12 were Rs. 1,52,293, Rs. 4,553, Rs. 1,26,528 and Rs. 21,212, respectively.

Collegiate Education.

45. Number of colleges.—There has been no change in the number of Government or municipal colleges in the Bengal Presidency during the quinquennium, but the number of aided colleges increased from 10 to 13, while that of unaided colleges fell from 14 to 11. According to the returns the total number of arts colleges on 31st March 1912 was 33.

46. Classification of colleges according to management.—Of the 33 colleges shown in the returns for 1916-17, 8 were under Government management, 1 was under municipal management, 13 were aided and 11 unaided against 8, 1, 10 and 14, respectively, shown in the returns for 1911-12.

* * * * * *

48. Students.—The total number of students on the rolls of all the colleges on 31st March of the last six years is given below :—

On the 31st March	1912	... ...	10,980 students.
Ditto	1913	... ...	12,896 „
Ditto	1914	... ...	14,746 „
Ditto	1915	... ...	15,921 „
Ditto	1916	... ...	17,226 „
Ditto	1917	... ...	18,478 „

The total number of students in arts colleges increased during the quinquennium under review by 7,498 or 68·3 per cent. It increased by 891 or 32·1 per cent. in Government colleges, by 82 or 105·1 per cent. in the single municipal college, by 2,651 or 79·8 per cent. in aided colleges and by 3,874 or 80·6 per cent. in unaided colleges. It is worth noting that during the year 1916-17 only 20 per cent. of the students were educated in Government colleges, while 80 per cent. were educated in private colleges. In 1911-12, 25 per cent. of the students were being educated in Government colleges.

49. Students by communities.—Of the total number of students on 31st March 1917, 16,255 were Hindus, 1,639 were Muhammadans, while 584 belonged to other communities. On 31st March 1912, the figures were 10,009, 810 and 161, respectively.

* * * * * *

51. Expenditure.—The expenditure incurred on arts colleges during each of the last six years is shown below :—

	Rs.		Rs.
1911-12	13,56,372	1914-15	18,06,536
1912-13	15,59,239	1915-16	17,78,940
1913-14	16,13,511	1916-17	18,84,996

The total expenditure during the year 1916-17 was Rs. 18,84,996. Towards this expenditure Provincial revenues contributed Rs. 6,49,416 or 34·4 per cent.. fees Rs. 10,71,061 or 56·8 per cent., and other sources Rs. 1,64,519 or 8·8 per cent. In 1911-12 the total expenditure was Rs. 13,56,372, of which Rs. 4,74,179 or 34·9 per cent. came from Provincial revenues, Rs. 6,46,481 or 47·7 per cent. from fees and Rs. 2,35,712 or 17·4 per cent. from other sources. From these figures it appears that during the quinquennium the expenditure from Provincial revenues increased by Rs. 1,75,237 or by 36·9 per cent., that from fees by Rs. 4,24,580 or by 65·6 per cent., while the expenditure from other sources decreased by Rs. 71,193 or by 30·2 per cent. The total expenditure on arts colleges increased by Rs. 5,28,624 or by 38·9 per cent.

52. Cost of Government colleges.—The total expenditure on Government colleges for 1916-17 was Rs. 8,43,645, an increase of Rs. 1,90,517 over the figures for 1911-12. In 1916-17 Government spent Rs. 5,14.595 on these colleges, while Rs. 3,12,871 came from fees and Rs. 16,179 from other sources. The corresponding figures for 1911-12 were Rs. 3,99,308, Rs. 2,39,908 and Rs. 13,912, respectively. Thus the expenditure from Provincial revenues increased during the last five years by Rs. 1,15,287 or 28·9 per cent., that from fees by Rs. 72,963 or 30·4 per cent., and that from other sources by Rs. 2,267 or 16·3 per cent.

53. Cost of aided colleges.—The total expenditure on aided colleges for 1916-17 was Rs. 5,44,242, an increase of Rs. 2,01,557 over the figures for 1911-12. In 1916-17 Government contributed Rs. 1,26,973 to these colleges, while Rs. 3,03,242 came from fees and Rs. 1,14,027 from other sources. The corresponding figures for 1911-12 were Rs. 71,850, Rs. 1,59,572 and Rs. 1,11,263, respectively. Thus the expenditure from Provincial revenues increased during the last five years by Rs. 55,123 or 76·7 per cent., that from fees by Rs. 1,43,670 or 90·0 per cent., and that from other sources by Rs. 2,764 or 2·4 per cent.

54. Cost of unaided colleges.—The total expenditure on unaided colleges in 1916-17 aggregated Rs. 4,79,369 against Rs. 3,53,839 in 1911-12. In other words, the expenditure on these colleges increased during the quinquennium by Rs. 1,25,530 or 35·4 per cent. Towards the total expenditure for 1916-17 fees contributed Rs. 4.45,246 and other sources Rs. 31,123. The corresponding figures for 1911-12 were Rs. 2,44,801 and Rs. 1,09,038. Thus the expenditure from fees increased during the quinquennium by Rs. 2,00 445 or 81·8 per cent., while that from other sources decreased by Rs. 74,915 or 68·7 per cent.

55. Buildings and equipment.—The cost on buildings and equipment of colleges according to management for the last year of the quinquennium under review is shown in the following table :—

1916-17.	Provincial revenues.	Municipal funds.	Private sources.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Government	3,312	...	1,864	5 176
Municipal	6,602	657	5,726	12,985
Aided	72,013	...	1,28,189	2,00,202
Unaided	7,996	...	75,866	83,862
Total ...	89,923	657	2,11,645	3,02,225

The figures shown above against Government colleges represent the amounts spent departmentally on equipment only. They do not include the sums spent directly by the Public Works Department.

Secondary Education.

151. Number of schools.—The total number of secondary schools returned as in existence on 31st March 1917 was 2,649 as against 2,224 at the close of the previous quinquennium. In other words secondary schools increased by 425 or by 19·1 per cent.

155. The doom of the secondary vernacular school.—The 2,649 institutions above quoted include 698 high schools, 1,602 middle English schools and 349 middle vernacular schools. On 31st March 1912 the number of schools of these three grades was 497, 1,213 and 514, respectively. The outstanding feature of these figures is that while the number of institutions in which English is taught has risen considerably, viz., high schools by 201 and middle English schools by 389, the number of schools working on a vernacular basis has decreased by 165. The secondary vernacular school is no longer in demand. A knowledge of English is now-a-days regarded as the first necessity of life. Even primary schools look forward to the inclusion of English in their curriculum. The doom of secondary vernacular school is in fact sealed. This is not a new development. In 1848 an official report stated that "in the observation of local officers and from experiments the fate of vernacular schools must be regarded as sealed." The increase in the number of high and middle English schools is not wholly due to the establishment of new institutions of these grades. It is due mainly to the raising of middle English schools to the high English school standard and of middle vernacular schools to the middle English school standard. In some cases middle vernacular schools have reverted to the primary standard or ceased to exist altogether.

* * * * * *

158. Number of English schools for boys per district in each division of the Presidency.—The average number of English schools varies considerably in the different parts of the Presidency. The Dacca division heads the list with an average of 154 English schools per district; next comes the Presidency division (excluding Calcutta) with an average of 88·8; then comes the Chittagong division with an average of 86·5; then the Burdwan division with an average of 77; and lastly the Rajshahi division with an average of 41·6. Calcutta has 75 English schools.

It is perhaps permissible on this point to quote the Bengal District Administration Committee.

"Two examples will illustrate the enormous differences which distinguish Bengal from the rest of Upper India and which stultify so many generalizations. The Madaripur subdivision of the remote rural district of Faridpur contains 15 private high schools, each with an attendance of about 400 boys. It further holds 19 private middle English schools. The Munshiganj subdivision of the Dacca district is even more richly endowed with private high schools. But in the whole of the United Provinces there are only 14 high and 15 middle English schools away from district headquarters. Five of the former and four of the latter are maintained by Government or local funds. The figures of attendance for all but two of the entire number are far below the average Bengal figures."

159. Number of pupils.—On 31st March 1917 the number of pupils attending secondary schools of all grades, i.e., high English, middle English, and middle vernacular schools, was 399,682 as against 300,319 at the end of the year 1911-12. The following table distributes the numbers in the three classes of schools :—

Year		High English schools	Middle English schools	Middle vernacular schools	Total
1911-12	...	142,003	125,440	32,876	300,319
1916-17	...	218,070	160,359	21,253	399,682

The total increase during the last five years amounts to 99,363. The figures for high schools show an increase of 76,067 or 53·5 per cent., and those for middle English schools an increase of 34,919 or 27·8 per cent. The figures for middle vernacular schools show a decrease of 11,623 or 35·3 per cent.

160. Average strength of a high school, a middle English school and a middle vernacular school.—The following table represents the average strength of the various classes of secondary schools at the close of the last two quinquennia :—

Year.	High school	Middle English school	Middle vernacular school
1911-12	286	103	64
1916-17	312	100	61

* * * * * *

165. Total expenditure on secondary schools according to sources.—Of the total expenditure of Rs. 72,66,376 on secondary schools for boys in 1916-17, Rs. 9,46,890 was contributed from public funds and Rs. 63,19,486 from private funds. A comparison with the corresponding figures for 1911-12 reveals an increase in expenditure of Rs. 2,96,127 from public funds and of Rs. 26,62,761 from private funds. While in 1911-12 the proportion of expenditure from public funds to the total cost was 15·1 per cent., by 1916-17 it had declined to 13·0 per cent. Of the total cost of secondary schools for boys, 74·4 per cent. was met from fees, 3·3 per cent. from endowments and 9·3 per cent. from subscriptions and other sources.

* * * * * *

187. Teachers' salaries.—It is an open secret that the salaries which are entered against the teachers' names and for which they sign receipts are not always paid. The following is an extract from a book which is now before the public :—

There is a very common practice of not paying the actual salary stated. Every school of under 300 boys, if staffed up to the ordinary standard, is running at a loss, and unless there is clear proof that the loss is being met by some wealthy patron, it is certain that it is being met by under-paying the teachers. This takes place in the following way : the teachers even in a good school live from hand to mouth, and have no place to keep their money in, so they draw their salaries in driblets of two or three rupees at a time as they need it, leaving often large arrears unpaid. There is an acquittance roll which has to be kept up-to-date. Hence all sign up-to-date, whether they are paid up-to-date or not, even in the honest school. The honest school pays up the balance at intervals, e.g., before the Puja holidays. This procedure is encouraged by the fact that Government grants are not drawn regularly by the school. They save them up and draw several together. Also there is occasionally delay in passing the bills. Hence innocent falsification of the acquittance roll is very general. Dishonest falsification is extremely easy. The teachers do not complain because they would promptly be dismissed. Detection by the inspecting officer is almost impossible, for no public account is kept of these intermittent payments. Even if by a rare stroke of luck one gets hold of the private account, as the months are not divided up in any set of thirty days, one finds some of the teachers overpaid, some underpaid, and some hardly paid anything at all. One has to go back 12 months and take an average.

188. No class teaching but a system of individual coaching.—Is it reasonable to expect that teachers engaged to work on such salaries and under such conditions will prove stimulating in their class rooms ? Moreover, the University regulations ordain that a teacher of either of the two highest classes of a high school shall teach 50 boys at one and the same time ; that each of the next four classes is to contain 40 boys, and each of the two below that 30. How many English trained teachers would undertake to teach a class of 50 boys in a secondary school, and the ordinary Indian teacher is not the equivalent of an English trained teacher ! He has never seen effective class teaching in his life ; nor have the boys any idea of it. The result is that class teaching is not attempted ; the boy has to learn something or he will stand no chance of passing the matriculation examination ; that something is not very much, but the long-suffering parent has long since realized that it is hopeless to expect that the school will impart it. So the boy goes to school and sits there for many hours every day, not that he may learn anything, but because sitting in a recognized school is a condition precedent to appearance at the matriculation examination. The boy's real work is done with a private tutor either before he goes to school in the morning or when he comes back from school in the evening. His tutor is by preference his class teacher, who is in rather a delicate position. If he taught the boys of his class what they are supposed to learn, his services as a private tutor would not be required, in which event he would starve.

189. Teachers and private coaches.—This custom of having the average school boy coached out of school-time in the ordinary subjects of the school curriculum calls for special consideration. That the system is widespread cannot seriously be doubted. "The teachers being ill-paid men," writes Dr. Chatterji, in the Rajshahi division report, "they are naturally anxious to do the work of private tuition." "There is hardly any teaching", says the Dacca division report, "but there is too much examining in the class ; in all schools, Government schools not excepted, pupils are required to learn their lessons at home, and when they come to schools they have only to answer the questions, which the masters put to them." But the most convincing testimony to the prevalence of the custom is to be found in the fact that the schools are staffed by teachers working on the starvation wages now paid. That many of these unfortunate men do suffer considerable hardships, I have no doubt ; but they somehow contrive to live, to educate their sons and to marry their daughters. If the great majority of the secondary school teachers did not earn money by private coaching, they could not subsist and the whole of the existing system of secondary schools would collapse.

202. Buildings.—With few exceptions high and middle schools are accommodated in buildings which are not only utterly unsuitable for school purposes, but also fail to satisfy the first requirements of health. The class-rooms are frequently inadequately ventilated and almost invariably so constructed as to put the maximum of strain on the eyesight of the teacher and the pupils. School buildings are rarely kept clean, while sanitary arrangements are not infrequently inadequate and seldom kept properly. In addition to this nearly all school buildings are overcrowded. It is common to find class rooms in which the boys are so crowded on the benches that the ordinary process of writing involves a series of acrobatic feats. The general condition of school accommodation in Calcutta is literally appalling.

* * * * * *

204. Are the demands of the Education Department unreasonable ?—It is sometimes alleged by the critics of the Education Department that far too much stress is laid on buildings and equipment and far too little on teaching capacity. It is also asserted that the conditions in these matters on which the Department attempts to insist are far too luxurious for such poor and simple persons as are the great majority of the inhabitants of Bengal. I do not think that any one who reads through this review can say that I have not emphasized the paramount importance of teaching capacity or that I have failed to condemn the deplorable inadequacy of the remuneration which is now offered to teachers. I am, however, unable to admit that the question of accommodation and equipment is one to which either the public or the Government can afford to be indifferent. The really ineffective teacher will never be anything but ineffective, even if the class-room in which he is put to teach is perfectly constructed and faultlessly equipped ; but the effective teacher is certainly handicapped by defective class-room arrangements and inadequate requisites. As regards the luxury criticism, there is, as Mr. Gilchrist recently pointed out in the Bengal Economic Journal, a very close connexion between education and the standard of life. All I am pleading for is that the secondary schools of Bengal should be so accommodated and equipped as to be able to fulfil their function, namely, the fitting of the younger generation to play the parts that they should play in the general scheme of the Presidency's existence. At present the secondary schools of Bengal as a whole are not so accommodated and equipped.

Primary Education.

234. Schools.—The quinquennium under review ended with 32,588 primary schools for boys, of which 3,165 were of the upper primary and 29,423 of the lower primary grade. In 1911-12, the figures were 3,526 and 25,076, respectively, yielding a total of 28,602 schools. Thus primary schools for boys increased during the quinquennium by 3,986 or by 13·9 per cent.

* * * * * *

242. Number of towns and villages served by a school.—According to the census figures of 1911, the total number of towns and villages in Bengal was 119,851. The number served by a primary school in 1916-17 was 3·6 against 4·2 in 1911-12. The areas served by a primary school was 2·4 square miles in 1916-17 as compared with 2·7 square miles in 1911-12.

The subjoined table gives the divisional particulars :—

	Number of towns and villages served by a school	Area served by a school
		Sq. mile.
Presidency	2·1	2·8
Burdwan	2·7	1·5
Dacca	4·1	2·1
Rajshahi	6·5	3·2
Chittagong	2·8	2·9

243. Pupils in primary schools.—The number of pupils in primary schools for boys as it stood at the end of each of the last six years was as shown below :—

Year	Pupils in upper primary schools	Pupils in lower primary schools.	Total pupils.
1911-12	190,173	883,676	1,073,849
1912-13	178,630	866,770	1,045,400
1913-14	171,664	856,020	1,027,684
1914-15	164,130	882,564	1,046,694
1915-16	159,712	964,397	1,124,109
1916-17	159,747	1,000,039	1,159,786

From the above figures it will be seen that the number of pupils in primary schools for boys increased during the quinquennium under review by 85,937 or by 8·00 per cent. There was a loss of 30,426 pupils in upper primary schools and a gain of 116,363 pupils in lower primary schools, resulting in a net gain of 85,937 pupils. Of the total number of 1,159,786 pupils in primary schools for boys at the end of 1916-17, 64,484 were girls, of whom 4,742 were under instruction in upper primary schools and 59,742 in lower primary schools as against 5,022 and 50,897, respectively, at the end of 1911-12.

* * * * * *

247. Total expenditure on primary schools.—The total expenditure on primary schools for boys shows a steady increase all through the quinquennium. The figures are :—

	Rs.		Rs.
1911-12	26,85,154	1914-15	34,04,979
1912-13	27,97,957	1915-16	37,17,242
1913-14	32,30,570	1916-17	37,97,976

The increase during the quinquennium amounts to Rs. 11,12,822 or 41·4 per cent.

In the quinquennium under review the greatest increase from year to year was that between 1912-13 and 1913-14, which amounted to Rs. 4,32,613. The increased expenditure on primary education is almost entirely due to the grants made from Imperial revenues.

248 Expenditure from public funds.—Towards the total expenditure of Rs. 37,97,976 returned for the year 1916-17 public funds contributed Rs. 16,51,010 or 43·4 per cent. In 1911-12 public funds contributed Rs. 7,72,266 or 28·7 per cent. Thus during the quinquennium there has been an increase of 14·7 per cent. in the proportion paid from public funds.

249. Expenditure from Provincial revenues and district board funds.—The contribution from Provincial revenues, spent directly on primary schools, towards the total expenditure from public funds during 1916-17 was Rs. 1,89,739 or 11·5 per cent. The percentage which this contribution bore to the total contribution from public funds in 1911-12 was 17·1. In the last five years the percentage has decreased by 5·6 per cent. This contribution is, however, not the only Government contribution made to primary schools. Government also aid primary schools through the agency of district boards. In the last year of the quinquennium under review Government made over Rs. 8,64,600 out of the Imperial allotments to district boards for the maintenance of primary schools for boys. The expenditure met from this amount has been shown in the statistics as expenditure from district funds.

250. Expenditure from the funds of municipalities.—Including the grants paid from the Imperial allotments the amount spent on primary education of boys from municipal funds has risen during the quinquennium by Rs. 41,138, the contributions from these funds being Rs. 50,467 in 1911-12 and Rs. 91,605 in 1916-17. This increase is deplorably inadequate. At one time a municipal board was expected to provide for the education of half the male population of school-going age of the area under its control at ten annas a head. Subsequently the minimum expenditure on primary education was fixed at 3·2 per cent. of the ordinary income of the Board. Both these orders have been withdrawn.

251. Expenditure from private sources.—Towards the total expenditure of Rs. 37,97,976 incurred on primary schools for boys during 1916-17 private sources contributed Rs. 21,46,966 or 56·6 per cent. The proportion borne by private sources in 1911-12 was 71·3 per cent. Thus in the course of the quinquennium under review this proportion fell by 14·7 per cent.

252. Fees.—If we compare the amounts returned as fees with the total amounts returned as spent, the amount returned as realized from fees during 1916-17 was Rs. 18,58,954 representing 48·9 per cent. of the total expenditure, as against Rs. 16,51,857 or 61·5 per cent. in 1911-12. The proportion of the cost of primary schools borne by fees therefore declined by 12·6 per cent. during the last five years.

253. Expenditure from other sources.—A sum of Rs. 2,88,012 is returned as having been contributed from other sources during 1916-17. This represents 13·4 per cent. of the total contributed from private sources. In 1911-12 the percentage was 13·6.

254. Total cost of primary education.—The figures of expenditure shown in the preceding paragraphs do not cover the whole expenditure on primary education. To arrive at an estimate of the total cost of primary education it would be necessary to include not only the cost of the primary schools and the primary departments of secondary schools, which by a rough calculation amounts to about Rs. 24,22,000, but also certain other charges incidental to primary education.

The total cost of primary education during 1916-17 may be stated roughly as about Rs. 69,24,000. In this figure are reckoned the expenditure on primary schools, the primary departments of secondary schools, the cost of maktabs and other schools teaching the primary standards, cost of buildings, scholarships, the pay and allowances of the subordinate inspecting staff, including 80 per cent. of the pay and allowances of deputy inspectors, etc.

260. Qualifications of teachers in primary schools.—The total number of teachers employed in primary schools for boys at the end of 1916-17 was 40,169. Of these 6,480 or 16·1 per cent. are returned as "trained", whilst 5,064 or 12·6 per cent. are returned as having "no special qualifications". The remainder 28,625 or 71·3 per cent. are returned as possessing "other qualifications".

Compared with the figures at the end of the previous quinquennium trained teachers have increased in number from 3,553 or 10·5 per cent. to 6,480 or 16·2 per cent. Those possessing "no special qualifications" have fallen off in number from 5,787 or 16·9 per cent. to 5,064 or 12·6 per cent., while those possessing "other qualifications" increased from 24,756 or 72·6 per cent. to 28,625 or 71·2 per cent. The proportion of teachers who have only passed the lower primary examination is still 10·2 per cent.

From the figures returned it appears that in primary schools for Indian boys there was at the end of 1916-17, one teacher for every 29 pupils under instruction. The average number of teachers for every hundred primary schools for Indian boys was 123·2.

The Education of Indian Girls and Women.

434. Schools and pupils.—The figures for 1916-17, when compared with the figures for 1911-12, show an increase of public institutions of all classes for girls and women from 6,957 to 9,520, a rise of 36·8 per cent., and of girls and women under instruction from 222,576 to 285,398, a rise of 28·2 per cent. The figures for the last year of the quinquennium under review constitute a record.

The number of Muhammadan girls attending public schools increased during the quinquennium by 44,904, or by 51·9 per cent. In the course of the same period the number of Hindu girls attending public schools increased by 16.559, or by 12·7 per cent.

Arts Colleges.

442. There are still only three arts colleges for women and they are all located in Calcutta, viz., the Bethune College, Calcutta, the Diocesan College, Calcutta, and the collegiate department of the Loreto House School for Girls, Calcutta. The first two are affiliated to the degree standard, the third to the intermediate standard.

* * * * * *

Secondary Education.

469. High schools.—There are 14 high schools for girls—10 in West Bengal and 4 in East Bengal. Of the former all but one—the Wesleyan Mission High School—are located in Calcutta; the East Bengal high schools are distributed as follows :—One in Dacca, one in Mymensingh, one in Chittagong and one in Darjeeling.

470. Government, aided and unaided high schools.—Four of the girls' high schools are Government institutions; 9 are aided schools and 1 is unaided.

Out of 10 non-Government schools, three only, the Brahmo Girls' School, Calcutta, the Victoria Institute, Calcutta, and the Maharani High School, Darjeeling, are not missionary institutions.

471. Pupils in high schools.—These schools had 2,059 pupils on their rolls on 31st of March 1917, viz., 126 boys and 1,933 girls. On 31st March 1912 the corresponding figures were 1,824, 101 and 1,723, respectively. Four hundred and eighty-eight girls were in the high stage of instruction against 291 at the end of the previous quinquennium.

* * * * * *

Primary Education.

482. General statistics.—Schools and pupils.—The returns for 1916-17 show 9,362 primary schools for girls. In 1911-12 the number of these schools was 6,572. At the end of the quinquennium under review there were 210.291 girls in primary schools for girls and 64,484 in those for boys. At the end of the last quinquennium the corresponding figures were 149,865 and 55,919, respectively. Thus the total number of girls under instruction was 271,775 at the end of the quinquennium under review against 205,784 at the end of the last quinquennium. The number of primary schools for girls increased during the quinquennium by 2,790 or by 42·4 per cent., and the number of girls under instruction in them by 60,426 or 40·3 per cent. This increase was shared both by West and East Bengal. In West Bengal, schools increased by 691 and their girl pupils by 15,991. In East Bengal the former by 2,099 and the latter by 44,435.

* * * * * *

493. The local education authorities and the primary education of girls.—It is a commonplace to say that further progress in the primary education of girls is a question of funds. It is more than this. Primary education of girls as well as of boys is a matter for which district boards and municipalities are responsible, but practically all the effective schools which have been started up to the present have been the result either of the direct action of the Education Department or of the efforts of some private body, such as a missionary society. What is the right course for the future? Should the Education Department seek to extend its initiative or does the future of the primary education of girls rest with the local education authorities? I think that we must recognize that the special nature of the problem demands and will continue to demand the special intervention of the central authority. By this I mean that Government should continue to finance directly special types of primary girls' schools such as the urban and model girls' schools described above. But these special types of schools can never do more than touch the fringe of the problem. If there is ever to be any general system of primary education for girls, that system must be in the hands of the local education authorities. There should, of course, be direction, guidance and encouragement from the centre, but I should regard as unsound any policy which advocated the removal of girls' schools from the control of the local authorities or even the extension of the system by which departmental grants are paid direct to the ordinary primary schools for girls. Possibly the local education authorities may have failed in the past to devote that attention to the education of girls, which the importance of the problem demands. It is idle to expect such a body as a district board or a municipality to be in advance of public opinion. Moreover, there always has been and still is the lack of funds. Having more than they can do to meet demands which exist, they cannot fairly be criticized for failing to create demands. The point is that district boards and municipalities are the local education authorities for primary education, and it is inconceivable that so long as they remain so, a general system of primary instruction for girls could ever grow up, as it were, in their despite. Local education authorities must be educated to recognize their responsibilities towards girls and to discharge their obligations. Possibly some readjustments may be necessary; it is, for example, desirable that the women inspecting staff should have more voice in the assignment of the boards' educational funds. But the line of advance towards a general system of primary education for girls must be through the boards and municipalities. The position is summed up by Miss Irons in the following sentence:—

> We want to aim at soundness and simplicity of aim and method and to convert the local bodies to this point of view.

The Education of Europeans and Anglo-Indians.

539. Distribution of schools and pupils according to management.—The following table shows the distribution of schools and pupils according to management :—

	Number of institutions.	Number of pupils.	Percentage of total number of pupils in secondary, primary and special schools.
Government institutions	5	302	3·13
Jewish	1	131	1·36
Non-Conformist	4	581	6·03

Undenominational including Y. W. C. A.	15	1,125	11·68

It will be observed that Roman Catholic school authorities maintained during the quinquennium a preponderance both in the number of schools and the number of pupils.

556. Statistics of teachers in European schools.—The returns for 1916-17 show that there were 546 teachers on the staffs of the various primary and secondary schools in Bengal. This means something like an average of one teacher to every 17 pupils, and though an increase of 2 pupils per teacher is shown on the returns for 1911-12 the ratio of pupils to teachers is still very satisfactory, since the Code requires one teacher to every 30 pupils. The same satisfaction cannot be felt when the figures are examined from the point of view of training and other qualifications. General Table IX shows that there are 211 trained and 335 untrained teachers in primary and secondary schools; thus the number of trained teachers is 38·6 per cent. of the total number. Members of religious orders engaged in teaching are returned as trained teachers. Excluding ecclesiastics from the total number of trained teachers there were 62 trained lay-teachers in 1916-17 for the whole Presidency. This number is nearly double the corresponding number in 1912-13, but it is still woefully inadequate. The dearth of trained teachers is most marked in elementary schools. Of the total number of 546 teachers 302 hold certificates of some kind and the rest do not hold any certificates.

591. The definition of European as laid down in the present Code for European Schools in Bengal, viz., "Any person of European descent, pure or mixed, who retains European habits or modes of life", while offering a wide latitude to those who claim the title, presents endless difficulties to an officer whose onerous task it is to verify these claims. It has been frequently represented that the definition should be limited to evidence of European blood on the father's side. It cannot be disputed that the establishment of such a definition would simplify enormously the problem of the education of the authenticated Anglo-Indian community. Then again, the concession mentioned in paragraph 650 of the last Quinquennial Report, by which the attendance of non-European scholars who have adopted European habits of life [Article 7 (c)] is counted for grants, makes confusion worse confounded. Such scholars spring from the lowest Indian castes and are entirely unfitted by heredity and by environment for a European education. The absurdity of the effort may be realized by anyone who cares to make an attempt to teach in English children of this class. The Hon'ble Mr. Arden-Wood said recently :—"There is no worse kind of education than that which is above the capacity of the learners ; it affects adversely both the bright and the backward." The problem of the education of the domiciled community would be enormously simplified, if the European system could be confined to those for whom it was intended.

As it stands, the community which claims the title "European", and for its children the privileges of a European education, is composed of peoples of many nationalities, pure and mixed, such as Indian Christians from almost every part of India, but chiefly from Bengal, Madras and Burma, where missionary efforts have been most successful ; West Indians, Negroes, Philipinos, Goanese, Chinese, Nepalese, Singhalese and others, including Anglo-Indians and pure Europeans. All these are to be found living cheek by jowl in the slums of Calcutta. With this bewildering conglomeration of races it is clearly impossible to design one system of education which will meet the individual needs of each and at the same time preserve for the Anglo-Indian proper the characteristics and ideals of a European education. Conditions such as these entirely prevent the educative process being one of social and spiritual uplifting and at the same time an adequate preparation for definite avenues of employment. We may by a supreme act of faith believe these children to be Europeans and, content in that belief, persuade ourselves that they are assimilating the European education which we are providing, but employers refuse to be deceived and state frankly that these people are unemployable save for the meanest kind of work, where wages are utterly inadequate to support them in European habits of life. They begin married life at an early age with a burden of debts, charity is looked for as an ingrained hereditary habit, and so the cycle goes on.

There are two other corollary causes, besides the presence in the European schools of large numbers of quasi-Europeans, which would seem responsible for the negative results of the existing educative process in attempting to combat the steady deterioration of the lower strata of the Eurasian community. These are, in my opinion, (1) the fact that our largest boarding schools and orphanages are situated in the heart of the slums and (2) the indiscriminate distribution of the free boarding grant. Mr. Maclear insisted that the children should be taken right away from their homes, but I do not agree that this can be accomplished by the mere extension of existing orphanage institutions. Those who for many years have had active control of this class of institution have come to realize the futility of their self-sacrificing efforts under present surroundings. The Brother Provincial of the order of the Irish Christian Brothers in a recent letter to Government pleaded for funds to remove the Catholic Male Orphanage from Portuguese Church Street, Calcutta, to a site outside Asansol.

The Rev. F. B. Hadow has recently proposed a scheme to remove the three institutions, the Gouldsmith School, the Old Mission Girls' Home and the Boys' Home from the slums of Bow Bazar and Kapalitola into the country outside Behala.

There would seem to be only one solution to the problem of how to elevate and render self-respecting the lower strata of Anglo-Indian society and that, to remove entirely the children of this class from their present surroundings and never allow them to return until a healthy disgust of their previous existence has been fostered, and habits of clean living and thinking have become natural and spontaneous.

The Education of Muhammadans.

593. Illiteracy of the Moslem population.—The Moslem population of Bengal is 23,989,719 out of a total of 45,483,077, that is to say, 52·7 per cent. of the total population of Bengal is Moslem. Of the total Moslem population 22,988,168 are illiterate, while 62,301 only are literate in English. This review records a certain amount of progress, but the figures are not reassuring. It is impossible to lay too much stress on the urgency of raising the standard of literacy in the Moslem community of Bengal.

* * * * * *

599. Moslems in various stages of instruction in general institutions.—The number of Moslems under instruction in all classes of institutions (public and private) for Indians is 864,195 or 45·2 per cent. of the total number of pupils of all creeds as against 717,189 or 42·4 per cent. in 1912. The figures for the various classes of colleges and schools are interesting. The number of students in arts colleges is 1,639 or 8·8 per cent. of the total number of students of all creeds as against 810 or 7·3 per cent. at the end of 1912. In professional colleges the number is 303 or 6·8 per cent. of the total number of students of all creeds as against 94 or 4·2 per cent. in March 1912. In high schools the number is 45,179 or 20·5 per cent. of the total number of pupils of all creeds as against 26,629 or 18·3 per cent. in March 1912. In middle English schools the number is 54,039 or 33·2 per cent. of the total number of pupils of all creeds as against 43,238, or 34·1 per cent., and in middle vernacular schools the number is 8,258 or 34·1 per cent. of the total number of pupils of all creeds as against 10,598 or 29·7 per cent. in March 1912. In primary schools the Moslems almost hold their own. The number is 680,273 or 49·5 per cent. of total number of pupils of all creeds as against 525,980 or 42·8 per cent. in 1912. An analysis of the figures, however, shows that Muhammadans represent 19·7 per cent. of the total number of pupils of all creeds in the high stage, 24·3 per cent. in the middle stage, 22·0 per cent. in the high and middle stages taken together, and 46·6 per cent. in the primary stage of school instruction.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS.

For the week ending on the 9th May 1918.

Summary.—Moderate to heavy rain was general throughout the province. Heavy rain has temporarily retarded ploughing and manuring of fields for paddy and harvesting of summer rice in places. Sowing of jute and autumn paddy continues in the Western districts. Prospects of both these crops are so far good. The average price of common rice for the province has slightly fallen as compared with that of the previous week.

Notification of Sale.

TO be peremptorily sold by the Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction in his sale-room in the Court-house on Saturday, the 8th day of June 1918, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, pursuant to the decrees of the said Court, dated, respectively, the 14th August 1916 and the 31st July 1917, and made in suit No 859 of 1916 (wherein Sreemati Kripa Devi is the plaintiff and Chanda Lal Mukherjee alias Bhattacharjee is the defendant) the undermentioned property of the defendant described in the mortgage in suit as follows :—

Lot No. 1.—All that undivided one-fourth share of and in all that two-storied brick-built messuage, land, hereditament and premises, situate, lying at and being premises No. 35, Sagore Dutt Lane, together with the piece or parcel of land thereunto belonging and containing by estimation three and half cottahs being Block No. III, holding No. 301 and paying an annual revenue of annas seven to the Collector of Calcutta, and butted and bounded on the north by Sagore Dutt Lane, on the east by premises No. 36, Sagore Dutt Lane, belonging to Bistoo Charan Dutt, on the south by premises No. 34, Sagore Dutt Lane, belonging to Ram Lall Dey, and on the west by Sagore Dutt Lane.

Lot No. 2.—All that undivided one-fourth part or share in all that one-storied brick-built messuage, land, hereditaments and premises together with the piece or parcel of land thereunto belonging, being premises No. 6, Guriama's Lane, containing by estimation three cottahs, a little more or less, being Block No. XIII, holding No. 453, and paying an annual revenue of annas twelve and pies ten, and butted and bounded on the north by 5, Guriama's Lane, being the tenanted house of Khetter Mohan Dass, on the east by Kapalitola Square, on the south by premises Nos. 7 and 8, Guriama's Lane, being the tenanted house, belonging to Sreenath Dass, and on the west by Guriama's Lane.

With regard to the share in the above two premises described as one-fourth, the attention of purchaser is drawn to the abstracted evidence of the mortgagor before the Registrar from which it would appear that his share in Lot No. 1 is only one-fifth share and in Lot No. 2 a one-third share.

The abstract of title and conditions of sale may be seen at the office of the Registrar or at the office of Messrs. Kallynath Mitter and Sarvadhicary, Attorneys for the plaintiff, at No. 8-2, Hastings Street, on any day before the sale and will be produced at the time of sale.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Wheat Crop of Bengal, 1917-18.

(Note.—On an average of the five years ending 1915-16, the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·4 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has, in the five years ending 1915-16, averaged (a) 39·1 per cent. and (b) 51·9 per cent., respectively.)

Character of the season.—The rainfall in September was about normal but the fall in October was excessive with the result that the sowings were generally delayed and the growth of the crop already sown was affected thereby. Subsequent dry weather proved beneficial to the crop temporarily but the prolonged drought that followed, had an injurious effect, and caused considerable damage in some important wheat-growing districts. On the whole, the season may be regarded as unsatisfactory.

Area sown.—The total area sown this year is estimated at 124,000 acres against 128,800 acres of last year. The decrease in area is reported chiefly from Murshidabad and was due to excessive rain at sowing time.

Outturn.—The estimated percentages of outturn in the important wheat-growing districts are as follows :—Nadia and Murshidabad 67 each, Pabna 70 and Malda 60.

According to the estimates of the District Officers the Provincial outturn works out to 69 per cent. of the normal against 81 per cent. of last year.

Taking the normal yield to be 10½ maunds per acre, the total yield for the Province is estimated to be 33,002 tons against 40,241 tons last year, or a decrease of about 18 per cent.

At the end of April, the average wholesale price of wheat at the principal mart of the Province was Rs. 5-6-0 per maund or about 3 and 5 per cents. higher than the prices ruling at the corresponding period last year and in the year preceding, respectively. The average wholesale price of common rice in the principal marts at the end of April on the other hand was Rs. 3-9 per maund or about 21 and 31 per cents. lower than the rates in the corresponding periods of last year and the year preceding, respectively.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

THIRD AND FINAL FORECAST OF THE SPRING OILSEED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1917-18.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1915-16, the area under linseed in Bengal has represented some 5·6 per cent., and that under rape and mustard 20·4 per cent. of the total areas under these crops in British India.)

Character of the season.—The rainfall in September was defective, but was sufficient for preparatory tillage. Heavy showers in October retarded sowings and caused some damage in places to the crops in the area already sown. Since then dry weather has prevailed. The absence of rain improved the prospects of the crops generally for a time, but latterly the weather being much too dry interfered with the growth of the crops and caused considerable damage in the districts of Nadia, Jessore, Birbhum, Hooghly, Howrah, Rajshahi, Bogra and Dacca. On the whole the season may be regarded as generally unfavourable for the crops.

Acreage.—The total area under oilseed crops (excepting sesamum for which separate forecasts are issued) is estimated at 1,333,500 acres this year against 1,421,300 acres last year, or a decrease of about 6 per cent. The decrease is attributed to excessive rain and floods in places at sowing time.

Outturn.—According to the estimates of the District Officers, the outturn of the different kinds of oilseed crops (excepting sesamum) for the Province as a whole works out to 82 per cent. against 85 per cent. of the normal last year.

Taking 6 maunds per acre as the normal rate of yield for linseed, rape and mustard and 4½ maunds per acre for other oilseeds, the total yield of all kinds of spring oilseeds (excepting sesamum) is estimated at 237,500 tons against 267,400 tons of last year.

Since the submission of the second forecast, the weather has been fair. Owing to heavy rainfall in September and October, which operated unfavourably on the growth of the crops, the outturn is anticipated to be below the normal.

It is an annual fee like the tuition fee and is divided for convenience into twelve monthly payments, and must be paid until the end of the session by all students using the buses during the academic year. The college authorities have to approve of the method by which students come to and go home from College. It is, therefore, incumbent on every day student not using the college bus to submit to the Principal a statement as to the arrangement she wishes to make, and obtain sanction for the scheme proposed. There is a hostel attached to the institution. The boarders are charged Rs. 11 per mensem for board and attendance and Rs. 3 for every hundred clothes for laundry expenses. The admission fee for the hostel is Rs 11. Accommodation in the hostel is very limited. All applications for admission to the College as well as to the hostel must be made in writing to the Principal. The new term commences after the long vacation on 12th July 1918.

Seats in the College being limited, applications should be made for registration as soon as the results of the University Examinations are published in the Gazette. Actual admissions will be made on the re-opening of the College when fees will be received.
